U. S. SAILORS TRAPPED IN SUB

MORGAN GINNINGS SHATTER RECORDS; RAIN HURTS CROP

Total Of 8,450 Bales Ginned Prior To 16th Of September

CKERS REMAIN MUCH IN DEMAND

Farmers Are Anxious To Get Crop Out Before Rains

Morgan County, up to September 16 had ginned over 8,000 bales of cotton more than had been ginned up the same date last year according to figures announced today.

The ginning figures probably are unprecedented in this county indicating as they do the earliest picking of crop probably in history.

The report of the bureau of the census of the department of commerce shows there were 8,450 bales of cotton counting round "as half bales," ginned in Morgan County from the 1st of 1925, prior to September 16 compared with 244 bales ginned to September 16, 1924. The report was issued by W. M. Stewart, director.

Eight shifts are employed at many of the gins in this county and the crop of the staple to the plants shows signs whatever of diminishing, although observers believe that the crop is more than half-picked.

It is no uncommon sight to see wagons, loaded with unginned cotton, lined up about the gins all night, the farmers awaiting their turn to get their cotton ginned.

are being utilized day and night by the cotton-growers' wagons.

Rain Hurts Crop
The heavy rain and windstorm Friday night apparently did considerable damage to the crop in this immediate territory, reports received Saturday indicated.

South of here, in Limestone county the fields were damaged it was stated while the same was true of the cotton west of here for some five miles, in the southern section of Morgan County.

few fields were declared to have been "picked clean" by the wind and rain. Just what extent of damage would be, through the coming of grades, observers did not estimate, but they were unanimous in their verdict that many farmers had lost heavily as a result of storm here.

few plies also were reported damaged in this section by limbs of a blown across the road, making hauling of the seed cotton to the gin difficult.

realizing the fact that the rainy season may be very near at hand, farmers are making every effort to get the crop out of the fields before the rain sets in with wet weather and pickers continue exceedingly scarce.

I am paying $1.25 per hundred," said one prominent planter, "if I knew I could get my crop during the next week, I gladly would pay $2.00 per hundred."

WISH HOLIDAY OBSERVED MONDAY

Princess Mafalda, second oldest daughter of King Victor Emanuel of Italy, became the bride of Prince Philip of Hesse, in simple ceremonies befitting a love match, at Raccogli. There were two ceremonies, the religious by the priest who baptized the bride as a baby, the other, the civil one, by Premier Mussolini.

ACTIVITIES OF THE WESTSIDE CHURCH

Membership Prepares For Active Fall And Winter Season

The membership of the Westside Presbyterian church is preparing for a very active fall and winter season. The Sunday school is making very gratifying increases in attendance and interest now.

Special services are planned for the month of October as follows:

On Sunday, October 4, a Rally Day program will be rendered, under the efficient direction of Mrs. O. J. Thomas, also on the evening of the same day, Mrs. Ralph I. McConnell, of Chiang Mai, Siam, one of the churches' successful foreign missionaries, will give a very inspiring address, descriptive of her work in Siam.

On October 11, public services will be conducted by Horace M. Layman, Sunday school evangelist for the Huntsville Presbytery.

On Sunday, October 18, this church is glad to announce that C. J. Randolph, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has kindly consented to conduct public services.

The Ladies Missionary society, under the leadership of Mrs. Sid Robertson is doing splendid work.

WOMAN DISCOVERED WITH HEAD MASHED

Wealthy Widow Found In Her Room With Jewels Missing

(Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 26.—Mystery today surrounded death of Mrs. Ada McCobb, 59 wealthy widow, found dying in her room, with Mrs. Mabel Longworth Sheridan, 30, in a swoon beside her. Mrs. McCobb's head had been crushed with a hammer and $10,000 worth of her jewels were missing.

In a trunk nearby, jewels valued at $30,000 were found intact. Mrs. Sheridan was arrested and has refused to talk. Her mother, Mrs. W. N. Longworth, operator of the rooming house, said Mrs. Sheridan took lunch upstairs to Mrs. McCobb yesterday. A short time later, she heard screaming and, accompanied by a maid, burst upstairs and found Mrs. McCobb's door barred.

Running around a porch, she entered a window. Mrs. Longworth told police that both women were on the floor and Mrs. McCobb's hands were around her daughter's neck. Her daughter, she said, was in a swoon.

TRAINING SCHOOL'S LEADERS PLEASED WITH THE RESULTS

Forty Will Receive The Certificates Sunday At Home Churches

ENROLLMENT AT SESSIONS LARGE

Athens Delegation At School Receives High Praises

Leaders of the second annual Decatur District Standard Training school, which closed its sessions Friday evening in the First Methodist church, Saturday were very much pleased with the results of the school, the attendance having been large and deep interest having been displayed by those enrolled and visitors. Particularly appreciative were the leaders of the large enrollment from Athens.

It was announced Saturday that forty certificates were given to students, as result of having completed courses during the school, and these certificates will be presented Sunday morning by the pastors of the various churches at which the winners of the certificates worship.

Certificates were awarded in the four courses as follows: Program of Christian religion, conducted by Dr. John S. Chadwick, of Birmingham, seventeen; intermediate-senior agencies, conducted by Mrs. J. W. Perry, of Nashville, eleven; beginner organization and administration, conducted by Mrs. J. H. Conrad, of Memphis, five; the junior pupil, conducted by Mrs. H. D. Guerrant, of College Park, Ga., seven.

The school opened Sunday afternoon, when Rev. S. T. Slaton, of Birmingham, spoke on "The Word of God and the Challenge of the Hour," his address proving an inspiration for the entire week. Following the enrollment of students, the evening class periods were started Monday at 7:00 o'clock and continued every evening until 9:30 o'clock, with an inspiration address from 8:00 to 8:30 o'clock.

The board of managers for the school included:

Rev. John S. Robertson, chairman; J. H. Johnson, chairman finance committee; Dr. R. M. McGlathery, chairman publicity committee; F. S. Robertson, chairman entertainment committee; Rev. J. D. Hunter, chairman enrollment committee; Rev. S. T. Slaton, educational director and dean; Rev. Claude O'Rear, pastor-host; John McGehee, in charge of text books; Revs. R. W. Sides, W. E. Draper, R. W. Anderson, W. M. Wade, Messrs. L. P. Troup, J. F. Lovin, J. M. Cannon, M. Patillo, L. P. Cartwright, L. R. Yarbrough, W. W. Callahan, C. D. Patterson, W. H. Day, and J. D. Ligon.

Prince Phillip, whose family was among the first to accept the teachings of Luther, was married by special dispensation, after promising that any children born would be brought up in their mother's Catholic faith.

"THE MARRIAGE means that the prince can never become head of the house of Hesse. If he did, it would be necessary for his wife and children to become Lutherans. Martin Luther becomes less im-

'UNDERSEA CRAFT' AND STEAMER HIT

THREE SURVIVORS ARE PICKED UP BY THE CITY OF ROME

Fleet Of Rescue Ships Rushed To Scene From 3 Stations

TERSE MESSAGE GIVES FIRST NEWS

Commander of Steamer Says Submarine Had No Side Lights

(Associated Press)

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Thirty four members of the crew of the submarine S-51 lay imprisoned at the bottom of the Atlantic today, after their vessel was rammed last night by the steamer City of Rome, of the Ocean Steamship company, on her voyage from Savannah, Ga., to Boston.

Three survivors were picked up by the steamer and it was a matter of conjecture as to whether the remainder were drowned or were alive in the underwater vessel.

While a fleet of rescue crafts from Newport, R. I., New York city and New London, Conn., the submarine's base, was rushed out to the point, 20 miles east of Block Island, where the disaster occurred, those on shore eagerly awaited news of the crash.

The City of Rome was proceeding to Boston and Captain Diehl, her commander, gave no details in his first terse message to officers of the company. She was due to reach Boston sometime this afternoon and it was said she might not arrive before four or five o'clock.

Hope that the 37 men, who went down with the S-51 might still be alive was increased when the destroyer Putnam, sent to the scene from the naval training station at Newport, sent a wireless message saying they had discovered what apparently was a buoy made up of a bunch of life preservers.

Naval men at Newport expressed the hope it might have been floated out of the sunken craft by members of the crew, who might be alive and wanted to give their position beneath the water.

The men rescued by the City of Rome were Dewey Kile, M. S. Lira, and A. Gier, all members of the engineer force, according to a message received at the Boston navy yard.

"Nothing else could be found," said (Continued on page four).

Steamer Skipper May Face a Probe Secretary Hints

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The steamship City of Rome should have remained on the spot, unless urgently impelled to leave, after ramming the submarine S-51 last night, Secretary Wilbur declared today. The conduct of the captain of the City of Rome, the secretary added, would be inquired into in connection with the investigation that would be ordered and if it was found there had been any criminal act or negligence on his part, action would be taken against him.

MEMORIAL PLANNED TO MEDICAL HEROES

Morgan County Society Acts As Committee To Raise Funds

The Morgan County Medical Society has been appointed as a committee to devise means for raising funds for construction of a suitable memorial in the Twin Cities to the memory of five physicians, who made the supreme sacrifice here during the yellow fever epidemic in 1888.

During the open discussions in the meeting of the northwestern district here Friday, Dr. Seal Harris, of Birmingham, said that a memorial should be erected to the memory of the five doctors who died here during the fever epidemic, many years ago, those five physicians having refused to give up their work of relief of suffering humanity and remaining here, despite the knowledge that they probably would contract the disease themselves.

A motion carried to the effect that the Morgan County Medical Society be appointed as a committee to secure the money with which to erect such a memorial.

The meeting of the 17 counties in the northwestern district here Friday was one of the best gathering of members of the medical profession ever held in the Tennessee Valley. The attendance nearly reached the 200 mark.

The days program was brought to a close Friday evening at a banquet at the Lyons hotel, when Dr. W. D. Haggard, of Nashville, president of the American Medical Association, was the guest of honor.

POSITION OF SUNKEN S-51 IS LOCATED BY FLEET OF RESCUERS

No Signs of Life Seen by Crews of Ships Says Radio Messages

SLIGHT HOPE HELD MEN STILL ALIVE

More Submarines Are Standing By To Aid In Rescue Effort

(Associated Press)

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—The position of the submarine S-51, sunk off Block Island last night, in a collision with the steamer City of Rome, was located today by rescue craft searching for the vessel, it was reported in a radio message to the Newport naval training station.

There were no signs of life, the message said, but crews of the rescue ship were optimistic that some of the 34 men who went down with the submarine might be alive.

The position of the S-51 was given as about a mile and a half S. S. E. of that first given by the City of Rome. More submarines were standing by as was Vincent Astor's yacht, the Nouermahal.

HEMMED BY COPS, MAN SHOTS SELF

Rose Keeps Police At Bay Two Hours In His Hotel Room

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 26.—C. Rose, who held policemen at bay for two hours last night before he was overpowered, came to his death by a self inflicted wound, Coroner Russum found today.

Hemmed by officers, Rose shot him self after he had been terribly wounded, the coroner said. Authorities said that Rose was obsessed with the idea that an old world secret society was hounding him and he believed persons who knocked on his door at a local hotel, to seek admittance, were members of that band.

He fired through the door and thereafter, for two hours, kept a posse of policemen and citizens in the neighborhood of the hotel on the jump. Rose lived in Pratt City and was employed by the T. C. I. company.

Mrs. Sarah Byfield Asks For Divorce

(Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Sarah E. Byfield filed suit for divorce today in Fulton superior court against Clyde K. Byfield, charging him with cruel and inhuman manner.

The Byfields recently were plaintiffs in a suit of $100,000 against Walter Candler, which charged Candler with "improper relations" toward Mrs. Byfield while on an ocean trip. The Candler suit resulted in a mistrial.

Mrs. Byfield asks that her maiden name, Sarah Gillespie be restored and that her husband pay $500 attorney's fee. The petition says the couple were married in June, 1919.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Mannering, the country club party in celebration of his twenty-first birthday having ended, is accompanied by Diane Bledsoe and another couple to Calkin's Inn for more dancing. He is doing this in spite of the tears of Margaret Patterson, who is in love with him. Theo Saturn is too sleepy to drive the car safely and Bob takes his place at the wheel, with Diane at his side, constantly imploring him to "Drive faster, step on it."

"Don't," objected Bob sharply as he gripped the wheel anew to meet their fresh onrush.

As if beset by a demon of recklessness Diane laughed wildly and pressed again and again upon the accelerator until the car was leaping through the night at a terrific pace.

"Diane, stop it," protested Bob sharply, and when she still persisted, "If you want to drive—drive."

There followed a moment of confusion and startled cries from the half asleep passengers on the back seat as the car swerved suddenly, as if uncontrolled.

Then, like a mad thing, unheeded, it rushed onward faster, ever faster—rushed onward amidst the excited cries of its occupants, careless of a motorcycle policeman hanging doggedly on its trail, heedless of a crossroads before it and of a distant honk which came down the breeze.

In the flash of a second brakes screeched, a roadster seemed to leap out of the darkness into the glare of their lights. There was a glimpse of a woman, white faced and horrified, staring at them. Shrieks, frightened screams pierced the night. Then, crash.

"Oh, yes, sir, I was in the car, but I wasn't driving."

In that second ruin was wrought. The boasted mechanical achievements of man became a tangled mass of wreckage. Aye, and there was human wreckage, too, perhaps, for from that shattered pile came groans and faint cries, while blood—human blood—ran forth to form a red pool upon the black surface of the roadway.

Straight towards this horror came the Mannering car, bearing Eileen and Marjorie. Disturbed though she was by Bob's unceremonious desertion of Marjorie, for Diane Bledsoe and the doubtful joys of Calkin's Inn, Eileen had found some crumbs of comfort. It might be no more than a sweet heart's quarrel, a passing outbreak, to be healed by the sweet balm of forgiveness. The trip to Calkin's Inn, a dash of waywardness for which Bob would promptly repent, Eileen thought she knew her Bob and, knowing him, was reassured.

To such a conclusion had her thoughts led, when suddenly the car slowed, then stopped.

"There is trouble ahead, ma'am. The road is blocked, and I can't get through," reported James, the chauffeur.

"Walk ahead and find out what it is, please, James. And hurry," she added with a premonition of trouble.

He moved off, but was back in a few moments, his countenance very grave.

"There has been a bad wreck, ma'am. Mr. Saturn's car was in the crash. I recognized it as soon as I saw it."

Marjorie gave a cry of alarm; but, shaken by dread as she was, Eileen managed to speak.

LEARN WHY INSECTS SLEEP THROUGH WINTER

MOSCOW, Sept. 26.—The Russian scientist M. Bachmetjew has determined that the temperature of insects increases in direct proportion to their activity.

Butterflies, he claims, furnished much valuable enlightenment on the problem of the winter sleep of the insect species. He found that when butterflies were placed in a colder atmospheric medium, their temperature immediately began to drop and continued on the downward scale until a certain point was reached, whereupon the temperature would suddenly shoot up again nearly to normal and then

"And Bob—was Bob hurt, James?"

"No, ma'am," the chauffeur responded promptly to go on with evident reluctance. "Please, ma'am—they've taken Mr. Bob to the police station, ma'am."

CHAPTER V

It was a lofty, brightly lighted room. A room with all the attributes of cheerfulness, yet gloomy and depressing, as if some part of the prison cells beyond had leaked forth to fill the atmosphere with vague apprehension and foreboding. A long railing ran on one side of it, and behind it was a raised desk, at which sat a police sergeant. Ordinarily he was a good humored fellow, but tonight he was stern and severe as he gazed down at the young people grouped before him.

And what a change had an hour wrought in these hilarious merry-makers from Bob Mannering's birthday party! What an ending to so happy a day! Diane Bledsoe was there, clinging to Theo Saturn as if expecting to find in his weak and dissipated nature the firm support she so needed. In this hour of trial, now her light hearted gaiety had departed, her care-free indifference faded. Face to face with stern reality, she was but a frightened girl shocked to the point of tears by the ordeal she had experienced. Confronted by a new world of stern and unyielding possibilities, she awaited with fear and trembling what the future held in store for her. Theo Saturn, too, seemed another person. Shorn of his half insolent self confidence, he stood exposed, a sorry spectacle. A scared boy, even worse, a weeping, a coward unmasked. Bob stood apart. Slightly shaken by the accident, he seemed bewildered by it all, yet met it gamely. In his manner was proof of the good stock from which he sprang. He might be mistaken, aye, wrong, but he would face the consequences squarely.

Slowly and with painstaking care the sergeant inscribed the names of the trio on the page before him, the silence of the room broken only by the scratch of his pen and the louder tick of the big clock upon the wall. Then he raised his eyes to fix a glance of inquiry upon an officer who entered hastily from an adjacent room.

"We have finally managed to locate the District Attorney," he reported. "He says to hold the prisoners until he arrives. He will be right down."

The words seemed to arouse Bob. Shaking off the lethargy which held him, he glanced up with a startled air.

"See here," he protested wildly. "Not him—don't send for him! No, no!"

The sergeant's eyes dropped to the page before him. Then he raised them to shoot a curious glance at Bob, but only to quickly center his attention upon Theo Saturn.

"The big car is registered to your name, it is your car. Were you driving at the time of the accident?"

There was something almost frantic in the eagerness with which Theo responded.

"No, no, sir. I wasn't near the wheel. I had given it up. I was very tired, sir. I gave up the wheel a long time before the accident, away back along the road. It must have been five, ten, fifteen miles back—maybe more."

"Hold on—you were in the car, weren't you? If you keep on, you never started."

"Oh, yes, sir, I was in the car, but I wasn't driving. I'm an awful careful driver myself. You can look up my record—I never had an accident in my life—that is, a real accident. I'm very careful about all the traffic rules and everything." Now there was a note of triumph in Theo's tones.

"You see, being tired, I wouldn't even drive, that's why I gave up the—"

"So you said," interrupted the sergeant dryly. "Too bad you got so tired—things might have been different. You are quite sure you hadn't been drinking any bad hooch, are you—to make you so tired?"

Theo looked shocked, also even more flustered than before.

"Drinking? Oh, no, sir. I never, that is, er—I hardly ever—"

SATURDAY NEWS LETTER

News Bits Gathered From The Four Corners Of The Earth By The Associated Press

(Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The billiard cue with which he won a victory over King George on the green baize at Balmoral, will be carried home soon by George H. Merrill, of Washington who was a recent week-end guest of the king at the royal estate in Scotland.

After a day of deer stalking, the king challenged Mr. Merrill to a match at 250 points. The American finished twenty points ahead of his royal host. The king, it is known, can wield a wicked cue at times, but he is not as good a billiard player as his father was. King Edward VII often belied his own dictum that "no gentleman should be capable of making a break of more than 25 points."

What would King George do with a whale if he were presented with one? Was the question prompted recently by the chase of one of these mammals of the deep off the English coast by fishermen who sought to capture it for their ruler.

The idea of presenting a whale to the king is in accordance with an act dating back to the days of King Edward II, under which all whales and sturgeons with one exception caught around the coasts of Great Britain belong to the reigning monarch.

King George has rarely had the refusal of a whale, but he has had several sturgeons presented to him during his reign, the first such gift being made at the time of his coronation.

A few days ago the king visited the Cardigan Bay district, in Wales, and, according to the ancient custom, was presented with a sturgeon which had been taken in the Welsh coast.

The exception noted in the old act is in the case of sturgeon caught in the Thames about London Bridge. Any sturgeon captured there belongs to the lord mayor of the city, and he has held an inquest on it and duly certified that it is a sturgeon and that it was caught within the area of the mayor's jurisdiction over the Thames. Although it is the habit of the sturgeon, like the salmon, to swim up-stream to spawn, there are only a few instances on record where the Thames has yielded a municipal sturgeon for the menu of staid old Mansion House, where the lord mayor resides.

The "death of glory" air race is the way correspondents of several London papers describe the Schneider cup race to be held at Baltimore October 24. They are telling their readers that the triangular course of twelve miles, which is to be covered five times, will mean a heavy strain on the pilots. Three British pilots have been entered for the race, Captain Henri Biard who will pilot the super-marine S-4; Hubert S. Broad, who will fly a Gloster-Napier, and Bert Hinkler, reserve pilot. The planes recently underwent full speed tests, but the results were not made public. The pilots were to sail for the United States today.

Hinkler, the third pilot chosen, is known as "The Airman with the Wonder Hands." He first gained fame by a non-stop flight from London to Turin in a plane equipped with a 35 horse power engine. He and his companions have undergone special training for the race since it is expected that the strain involved will necessitate special preparation.

A curious English counterpart of the old time American habit of recognizing greatness by giving a man's name to a brand of cigars, revealed itself at the Horticultural show when a new christened dahlia was shown and named. It was not, as might have been expected, given the name of some feminine beauty of royal blood, nor even an ordinary dictionary term redolent of sweetness, light and other qualities possessed by dahlias.

It was named the Jack Hobbs Dahlia after the modern king of professional cricketers. Hobbs all this season has been more than ever in the public eye and admiration. Not only has he exceeded the record of 126 "centuries" made by the greatest of bygone cricketers, W. G. Grace; but he has beaten his best previous aggregate runs in a season which was 2,872 in 1920. A "century" is 100 or more runs scored by a batsman in a single inning.

The highest prices ever paid for grapes from the famous "King's vine" at Pontabieu were realized at the annual sale when a sum nearly double that of 1924 was taken in.

The 1925 production, which was of good average quality, brought 1,700 francs for 36 lots of 25 pounds each, at against 900 francs in 1924.

The grapes come from the celebrated vine planted by King Henry IV in the 15th century. With the care given it by Louis XIV, and despite Napoleon's indifference, it is now considered the finest specimen of its kind in Europe. It has a counterpart in Hampton Court, England, which produced this year six hundred bunches of grapes.

Longer skirts, longer sleeves and high collars will be the rule in women's dress for the coming fall and winter seasons, the directors of fashion have ruled. Most of the fall and winter models displayed at the "grand openings" of the leading dress makers show a decided tendency toward tight fitting, particularly at the normal waist line.

All the frocks for day-time wear have long sleeves, mostly large from elbow to wrist, and nearly all have high collars, some reaching to the ears.

For evening the styles run to lace in black, gold or silver; velvets and silk or chiffon in light colors. Many are fur trimmed and all have embroidery in floral designs of the finest beads.

The colors mostly used are black, purple, bright blue, gray all shades of green and red. Much of the red is combined with black and many of the blues are two toned.

A proposal to remove the smoke, soot, grease and other dirt that has accumulated on the outside walls of the opera house, during the last ten years has raised a sharp controversy in artistic circles.

Some ardent admirers of the great building are crying out fiercely against the idea that some morning they may go down town and find an entirely white opera house looming before them, deprived of the many shades of color "artistically laid on by time."

The opposite viewpoint is strongly supported by those who argue that this opera was once clean, and was no less admired then than now.

There is a law in Paris that all buildings must be scraped, washed or cleaned in some way every ten years, and it is hoped that the opera cannot escape from this regulation.

The world's butter and cheese men, when they meet in solemn conclave here next year, will be asked to ratify a rule drafted by the International Cheese Commission at Berne, Switzerland, by which the place of manufacture of all kinds of cheese would have to be clearly stated.

Thus, cheese, manufactured in America, but resembling Emmenthal would have to be described as "American Emmenthal" to distinguish it from the Swiss article. The meeting of the cheese commission, was attended by representatives of France, England, Germany, Italy, Sweden, Norway, Holland, Denmark, Austria, Hungary and Switzerland.

The French debt funding mission to the United States sailed unaccompanied by a single woman assistant although some of the delegates have along their wives. The fair sex is not represented, even among the stenographers, secretaries and clerks.

Strict economy ruled when the mission was created, and Finance Minister Caillaux said: "I am not even taking my valet with me. In these days of financial penance we must show the Americans we do not intend to spend a single franc of France's money without absolute necessity."

The acerbites aroused by the celebrated Dayton, Tenn., "evolution trial" appear to have been transferred to Germany, where a sharp debate on the Darwinian theory has been raging among scientists. The trouble started when Prof. Albert G. P. Fleischmann, professor of embryology at the University of Erlangen, Bavaria, and a noted writer on Darwinism, claimed recently in the Munich Neueste Nachrichten that the Darwinian theory of the origin of species has been contradicted by later researches of science and that but few scientists still accept it.

This led twelve professors of paleontology and zoology in the University of Munich to issue a public statement declaring that now, as formerly they regard the formulations of the doctrine of the origin of species as among the highest achievements of their respective sciences. They expressed the opinion that this viewpoint is shared by almost all representatives of their branches of learning.

The controversy promises to continue lustily drawing an increasing number of debaters into its scope.

"I will sell my sole possession, viz, my golden bachelor's freedom, to the highest bidder," is the frank matrimonial advertisement recently inserted by Heinrich Eisler, a merchant of Altona, in the Hamburger Fremdenblatt. Eisler describes himself as 35, of a trustworthy character, a lover of art and nature. He announced that bids from women up to 40 years of age would be considered.

Sebastian Scheidl, a Bavarian soldier, who lost a leg in the world war wants to demonstrate that a one legged hiker can be as good as those having two legs. He has started on a walking tour of Germany and within a year hopes to cover a route running throughout the country with a length of 3,000 miles.

Scheidl claims that many days he is able to walk as much as 20 miles. He started from Munich and his route lay first through Saxony, (Saxonia), Brandenburg, Pomerania, and Mecklenburg. He was last seen passing through Kiel, having already gone through Hamburg and Altona.

Prince Louis Ferdinand, second son of the former Crown Prince Frederick William, has made his debut as a violinist and concertmeister. He recently left for a tour of Westphalian cities with the orchestra of the Potsdam real gymnasium, the "prep school" in which he is a student and he will play the first violin and act as concertmeister. The Potsdam Madrigal chorus also is taking part in the tour.

Prince Louis Ferdinand is proving a student of more than average ability. Recently he surprised members of his family by learning Spanish a few weeks. A little later he gave a public lecture on the impression of a visit he had made to Spain.

Maurice Arnold, a New York piper and a pupil of Anton Dr. has been honored by having "String Quartet in G" accepted for production this winter by the Barmas Quartette, in Berlin, as Zimmerman Quartette in Amsterdam. His violin concerto also is produced by Fritz Kerkhoff in Amsterdam. The quartet abounds in motifs and humor, especially a Scherzo part, but in form of Barmas and on the whole is a position of the Romantic style composing.

12 Years Ago

From The Daily of
September 26, 1913

John Ragland, negro, was convicted in the court here today on a charge of having killed his wife on Bank street, and was sentenced to be hanged.

Rumors are to the effect that Judge Edward B. Almon, of Tusculum, will make the race for congress in the Eighth district.

Jack Calvin is ill at his home on Ferry street. Wheatley Davis has returned from a visit to Memphis.

Master Sanders Cortner will entertain a few friends at dinner this evening.

Pretty soon the probe of the Shenandoah disaster will be brought to an end and with it the same air chiefs will resume their duties at Washington.

Greater Albany-Decatur, Greater Tri-Cities, Greater Huntsville, Greater Valley, that is the challenge that is issued today. The benefit of one is the benefit of the other. If a bit of friendly rivalry between these cities of Northern Alabama will result in a faster growing realm in the Tennessee, let us not refrain from entering into friendly controversies regarding our comparative size and advantage. "One for all and all for one," is worth a great deal when the theory is put into practice. We hope for the other cities the greatest years of prosperity ahead, we are not worried about our own, we know that a greater life is coming with all the attendant blessings.

WOODROW WILSON STAMPS CERTAINLY SHOULD BE AUTHORIZED BY AMERICA

American people have the biggest hearts on earth, but sometimes they become mighty careless in the matter of sentiment. Someone has recently asked why it is that the American government never has authorized a Woodrow Wilson stamp issue. No good reason has yet been advanced for what some papers call a "deliberate neglect," but the movement to bring about such an issue is gaining in momentum daily and there is very great hope that by the time of the lamented president's birthday anniversary in December, that the stamps will have been issued.

The matter was called to the attention of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation and has received the following approval:

"In passing upon this request we feel that this is no new precedent, in that there was an issue of stamps put in honor of our deceased president, Warren G. Harding, and the foundation feels that in like manner this honor should be paid the memory of Woodrow Wilson, our president who guided us during eight years of storm and stress such as no other man ever faced, who laid down his life on the altar of sacrifice for what he believed to be the cause of his country and the world, and who called upon humanity to take the first step toward the abolishment of war, the greatest enemy mankind has ever known." We feel it would be most fitting to issue this stamp during the month of December next, at the time when Woodrow Wilson's birthday will be commemorated by thousands of our citizens throughout the country."

WHY GIVE UP PROHIBITION WITHOUT THOROUGH TRIAL OF THE ISSUE

The proposal involving a compromise between certain prohibition leaders and brewery interests on the question of modification of the Volstead law is premature. By its acceptance on the part of the sober, wholesome thinking citizenship of the nation, prohibition would be branded more or less as a failure without ever really having had a try-out.

It is significant that the news of the proposals creep into press dispatches just at this time when there has been a reorganization of the prohibition unit on a basis which certainly gives every indication of accomplishing results.

Too much attention apparently has been devoted in the past to catching and convicting minor offenders, while the bigger rum handers escaped. In New York, in Philadelphia, in Chicago, in fact practically all over the country, that condition has been changed or rapidly is being changed. "The bigger they are the harder they fall" has been adopted by the prohibition enforcement unit and arm rings are being broken up.

It may be too early yet to decide whether or not the recent efforts at prohibition will make the country as dry, as sincere prohibitionists would have it, but the fact remains that a very good start toward that end is being made. Why should this advantage be given up now, in order that the brewing interests may sell wine and beer?

Their promise, it is quoted, is that if they are permitted to dispose of beer and light wines, without interference, that they, in return for the favor, will assist in enforcing the prohibition against stronger alcoholic liquors. The right of brewery agents leading squads of prohibition men in raids on bootlegging establishments would be one thing to be remembered, but, perhaps after all, Uncle Sam is entirely capable of enforcing the dry law, without the brewers' assistance, once he puts his mind to it.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS, EXPRESSION OF CHATTANOOGA BANK PRESIDENT

T. R. Preston, president of The Hamilton National Bank of Chattanooga, Tenn., one of the largest banks of the South, made these significant remarks recently, and they carry a message fraught with opportunity, the like of which the South has never yet had to offer her son's and daughters.

"If I would choose the time in which I could have all my active years and the place I could work out my little career, the time would begin with 1925, and the place would be the South."

This statement coming from a man of vision and a man of large affairs, must be taken at its face value. The South is literally piling money in the southern banks, deposits in the South increasing forty per cent, while taking the United States as a whole, the increase was only twenty per cent.

There are untold millions being invested in various developments in the southern states, this favored section beginning to become the headquarters for the raw and finished products. There was a time when the South was poor, very poor. This period following the civil war, when the remnant of the southern army tramped back home to find their country devastated, their homes gone, presenting to them a scene of desolation and destruction indescribable. The love of home and country fired those who came back, and they at once set to work to rehabilitate the desert, and today it is but an expression of their energy and loving work, as it has been transformed into a garden of productive loveliness.

How laborious the task when the first work of reconstruction was begun, no one knows save only those who took the lead. To the women of the South, who so greatly aided in this work, bearing the burdens of war without a murmur, and turned their attention with the coming of peace to the glorious reconstruction, in which they have always borne a significant part, have intervened into the history of the South, a page, bright with their generous deeds and sacrifices.

But today, that burden is a thing of the past, and many who had an active part in beginning the things of which today is but an expression, have the satisfaction of standing today upon the sun-kissed summit of achievement, and can look all about them and see the things which they wrought.

THIS IS A GOOD TIME TO CONSIDER THE RIGHT HAND RIGHT-OF-WAY DRIVING LAW

Two incidents occurred in the Twin Cities yesterday which served to illustrate again the need for consideration of the proposed standardized "right hand right-of-way" driving law. At one intersection two automobiles approached the corner and neither driver seemed disposed to give way to the other. It seemed for a moment that they would occupy the exact center of the intersection at exactly the same time, which would have resulted in nothing less than a smash, with undoubted property damage and possibly injury to the drivers themselves. Neither car was going rapidly and the drivers managed to swerve their machines sufficient to miss each other. An observer could not help noticing, however, the look of resentment each gave the other as they went their way down the streets.

Both of the drivers probably felt like they had been imposed on by the other. Yet, had there been an ordinance providing that the driver approaching the intersection from the right of the second driver, had the right of way the whole incident would have been avoided.

At another section two machines met. Both were driven by chauffeurs of the ultra-careful type. As the machines neared the intersection, both cars virtually stopped. After a moment of wig-wagging on the part of the drivers, one shifted gears and went by, then the other passed. These two drivers, had there been a right hand right-of-way law in effect, could have saved some time and a great deal of inconvenience had they known which one had the legal right to pass first.

Other cities are adopting the plan. The Twin Cities, so progressive in other things, no doubt will give the question the degree of consideration it so obviously deserves.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS for the Sabbath and Other Days

BY J. E. BLAIR

Making a rose color and a perfect rose shape, does not make a rose. A bouquet does not hide a soiled place on the table cloth, from a person of imagination. They make castor-oil, that does not taste like it used to, it is said, but people with good memories do not believe it. Perfumes keep down bad odors, only when we do not know that such odors exist. The ear is satisfied with sweet music only if its producer is sweet. Its imitations feel like silk only to those who do not know the "feel" of real silk. All of which is to say—the five senses, seeing, hearing, smelling, tasting, and feeling are easily deceived, but not so with the persons who "own" the senses. "Appearances are deceptive," however, to a vast percentage of the people—or else many millions have been deceived, because they "loved a lie."

So deceptive are appearances, that according to Dr. Trevor Mordecai, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Birmingham, the Bible text: "Creeping things that fly, are unclean," means that sin is apt to be attractive when practiced by the "high-fliers." He says gambling does not look half bad when pretty rich women win prizes. He adds, however that it is as bad to play bridge for cut glass, as it is to shoot craps for soiled dollar bills! "A louse will still be a louse, though it creeps through the curls of a Queen," quoted Dr. Mordecai from Burns. To a child, a mule with stripes painted on it, may seem a zebra. Also to a child a maroon colored Ford may not seem like a Ford. To a peace loving person—one who knows nothing of war, a clamorous battle ship is harmless. To one who loves a sensation in his brain, despite its cost to his heart and his soul, the wine "when it giveth its color in the cup" is harmless. It all depends on what a person WANTS, as to what is harmless or harmful. Those who want the TRUTH, like to be told, that a spade is a spade, that wine is poison, that gambling is gambling and that murder is murder. Why, in the fable, even the lion, was disgusted at an untruth. He bit off the head of the wolf, because he said the breath of the lion was "sweet;" when the lion knew very well it was "rank." None but the spiritually crazy want lies, or cunningly devised fables, when they know their immortal souls are at stake. Those who live a sinful life in fine clothes—because their influence is so "acceptable" do more harm than those who sin in overalls! And all "good-looking" whether men or women, are likely to come into "a greater condemnation" than they think, just because they are letting their appearances deceive so many people. And finally, those who have great talents and do nothing with them except wrap them in a napkin "shall be beaten with many stripes."

ard Harding Davis, then a reporter on the Evening Sun, was sent by this writer to "write up" Harrigan and Harts "Tough Girl." The story appeared: Ada Lewis became a star immediately. Davis was a good reporter.

EVIDENCE at the Shenandoah investigation shows that Commander Lansdowne, who understood flying protested against taking his ship through the storm belt of the Middle West and asked for a postponement.

Those knowing nothing about flying, but unfortunately controlling aviation in the United States, ordered him to go, in order to "impress certain state fairs on the way." Because his advice was not taken, Lansdowne was killed.

WHO IS responsible for his death? And how good a suit for damages have his widow and other Shenandoah widows against those that sent their husbands to death?

CONSIDER Kemal Pasha, and Turkey that obeys his orders.

He tells the League of Nations. England, France, Italy and the rest in language of Shakespeare, "To go to." Turkey doesn't care what the League of Nations may say, and announces that it will pay no attention to any world court decisions.

SUPPOSE this country were in the League of Nations, or affiliated with the World Court. Suppose it were necessary to discipline the Turks, accept the views of western Europe? Don't you think this country would be expected to do its share, and supply men, or at least money, to fight the Turks.

Do you feel that we ought to supply men or money to fight the Turks? Do we want to mix in the fight about Mosul and the oil wells there?

PRESIDENT Coolidge is level-headed, with common sense. Very likely he would tell western Europe and the Turks to fight it out at their leisure. But Coolidge will have successors. You know to what extent Woodrow Wilson endeavored to speak for the United States, and made promises for the United States. Who can tell, what another president, with a fondness for war, or a desire to be important might do?

VICTORIA Woodhull, still living in London, aged 88, has given her beautiful manor house to the Sulgrave committee of the Anglo-American society. To this generation the name of Victoria Woodhull means nothing. It means a good deal to the few remaining "oldest living reporters," sent by Dr. Wood, and later by John Bogart of the Sun, to interview Victoria Woodhull and her sister genius, Tennessee Claflin.

IN THE DAYS of long ago they were the only two men in Wall street, when Jay Gould was active. Stokes was shooting Fiske and Russell Sage, beginning to sell "puts and calls."

Think of a day when there wasn't a female stenographer or a typewriter machine in Wall street, not a woman employed in any of the big banks and offices, only Tennessee Claflin and Victoria Woodhull, telling financiers what spirits said.

CHINA, you may be interested to hear, is hanging bandits in Shanghai. For a while a disorganized government was unable to furnish hangmen and protection for the hangings.

Partial order being restored, twelve Chinese robbers were hanged before thousands of spectators yesterday, after having been paraded through the streets. Six will be hanged every day for the next thirty days.

CHINESE take death calmly. When criminals are sentenced to be beheaded, a dozen or more will walk out, kneel down in a row, and wait for the headsman to come along and chop their heads off, not one trying to escape. They are not nervous.

LONDON is agitated because the "great art collection of Lord Leverhulme, successful soap maker, is to be sold in New York City, not in London.

This is said to mean that the art center of the world has moved from London to New York but that isn't so.

The money center has moved, and in 1925, as in the days of the Medici art goes where money is.

USELESS EXPOSURE OF BODY IS HARMFUL

We Can Be Soaked by Rain, or Endure Extremes of Heat and Cold if Proper Precautions Are Taken to Maintain Our Resistance.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND.

CHANGEABLE weather breeds illness. Why? Is it because more germs are abroad to attack the body in greater force?

Not at all. The body is extremely sensitive to its environment. It does not thrive if it is alternately chilled and roasted. It resents the discomfort of wet, clammy feet. Damp shoulders and knees make you feel mean, but more than that—they produce unpleasant physical disturbances.

To sit around a room with chattering teeth and shivers running up your back is "good" for the doctor but bad for you. To face a gale of wind and rain and to walk miles through it, to the exhaustion of your strength and spirits, is preparing the way for a spell of sickness.

I don't ask you to be a mollycoddle and to be scared to death if you get your feet wet. That is all foolishness. With proper care after a good wetting, there will be a pleasant reaction following the brisk rub. In that event the experience has done you good, because it has stimulated your circulation.

I assure you, however, that undue exposure and neglect to protect the body against extremes of temperature are fruitful causes for illness. Nobody can escape germs. We are constantly in contact with them. The lining membrane of the nose is sprinkled with them all the time. Soiled hands and neglected fingernails carry loads of them.

But we need not worry about germs, provided the resistance of the body is maintained as it should be. Burglars are always about, but we have no fear of them so long as our locks and window fastenings are secure.

What we call "bodily resistance" may be compared to the device which keeps our houses safe. So long as the resistance to disease is maintained there will be no trouble from germs.

This power depends on what we know as health. Good circulation, deep breathing, proper skin and kidney action, easy digestion, speedy waste disposal—these are functions which must not be impaired. So long as they proceed as they should we will have health.

Wrong living, abuse of the body, exposure to the elements without right treatment afterward—anything indeed which makes you miserably uncomfortable lowers the resistance. This means that the lock is broken.

Hartselle News

Funeral services for Mrs. Prewitt Simpson, who died Thursday evening at the Benevolent Hospital, Albany, following an operation, were held from the First Baptist church Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, being conducted by her pastor, Rev. G. C. Walker, assisted by Rev. R. W. Anderson of the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Simpson was in her usual health last Sunday morning, and attended church services. Sunday afternoon with her husband she was carried to the hospital, where it was deemed an operation was necessary. Following the operation, complications set up, causing her death.

When the announcement reached this little city that Mrs. Prewitt Simpson was dead, there was genuine sorrow, and the announcement was a distinct shock to her many friends, who a short time since had seen her at church services.

Her pastor paid a well deserved tribute to her faithfulness as a church member, wife and daughter, and read some beautiful passages bearing directly on the rewards of the Christian life.

Services were completed at the cemetery, and amid a bank of beautiful flowers, the last loving tribute to a departed friend, the new made mound was literally covered, as sorrowing relatives and friends, and a grief-stricken husband turned their backs on the new made mound, and wended their way back to a desolate home.

Mrs. Simpson was 32 years old, and had been married nine years. Besides her husband, she leaves a mother and several sisters, all of whom reside here with the exception of two, who live in the West.

A good shower came to this section late Friday afternoon, laying the dust nuisance, and cooling the air, bringing relief from the dry hot conditions which have prevailed here for so long.

In sections close to town the rain appeared harder, the little came to this immediate section.

Mrs. R. W. Anderson is visiting relatives and friends in the southern part of the state.

The wedding of Miss Laneta Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hammond, to Mr. Adlia Patterson of Falkville, was an event of Friday afternoon, the ceremony being said at the Central Hotel by Rev. R. W. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church. Mr. Patterson is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Patterson of Falkville, and is in the mercantile business there.

Following the ceremony, the happy couple left for a short honeymoon trip to southern points. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends at Falkville, where they will make their future home.

THOUGHTS

OF THE WEEK

By J. A. West

THE AMERICAN HOME

When the Pilgrim fathers left a land of oppression and came to these shores, landing at Plymouth Rock, they came with the avowed purpose of erecting homes, and went into the forests of a wild country with crude implements, cleared the forests, erected homes and dedicated them to the cause of liberty. Since that memorable period, the American home has been the bulwark, the first line of defense, the impregnable fortress, that has withstood the onslaughts from without and within for over a century, and stands today as impregnable as it did on that memorable occasion, and is the hope and the pride of this great country.

Disasters have come and gone; distrust has grown and thrived; hatred and oppression have each raised their hoary heads; tempests of internal discord have raged about it, but it has come forth unscathed and is today the expression of the faith and the courage of those who braved the dangers of an unknown sea, and turned their faces toward the land of liberty, conscious of the fact that their cause was just, and that success would ultimately crown their efforts.

This same principle is expressed in the millions of American homes, simple and palatial, where the millions of toilers can turn from the busy cares of an active and arduous life, and sit around its hearthstone amid the association of those who really care, and have a feeling of security which no other place affords.

One may tire of its sacred haunts and wander over the face of nature, drinking of the bitter and the sweet in the hope of finding pleasure and satisfaction, only to turn again the face homeward, and dream in sweet anticipation of the day when familiar scenes would again afford that lasting comfort and rest which can be found at no other shrine.

This same urge is the expression of that love and devotion of the many sons and daughters who have left the old family home, and for business reasons have gone hither and thither, but there is ever the recurrent memory of that earlier association, entwining itself around the chords of the heart, bringing pictures of fancy cherished memories, lasting impressions of that shrine of shrines.

ALABAMA

When nature's artist designed to make that section of this great country embraced within the boundary lines of this great state, He must have been in His happiest mood. No section embraces a more varied landscape, and no section is blessed with such a variety of soil, capable of producing practically everything which can be grown in the known world.

How little the average Alabamian knows about his native state, rich in historical lore, and peopled with a civilization who have met every call and responded with alacrity wherever and whenever their country called.

The names of her many illustrious sons and daughters who figured in the early history of her struggles, is as brilliant and scholarly as can be found in any other section.

In peace she has set an example of rehabilitation, born of courage and love of home which challenged the admiration of an onlooking world. In war she sent forth the flower of her domain, christening them with the tears of love and devotion, as they went forth in her behalf.

Today, after struggling for more than a half century, building her impoverished waste places; planting where destruction had laid bare; erecting shrines for those who gave their life blood in her behalf; gathering together the archives of history and placing them secure where generation after generation may pass and read of the glorious achievements of those who preceded them, she is the one state in the union of the states, where all eyes are turned, and she soon is destined to be the leading state in the union.

Saklatvala, a leading Communist of India.

Dr. Fernand Merlin, Senator Beaumont and Pierre Renaudel are eminent in the group from France. Germany is sending five women delegates with Mme. Clara Mende, one of the most prominent. Dr. Josef Karl Wirth former Chancellor, Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, Professor Richard Eickhoff and Dr. Walter Schucking are notable in the German delegation.

Norway is sending its Minister of Foreign Affairs, John Ludwig Mowinckle. The Irish Free State has as prominent members in its delegation Sir Thomas Grattan Esmonde and General Richard Mulcahy, Newfoundland will have the Hon. Cyril K. Fox, Speaker of the Assembly, and Hon. Sir Patrick T. McGrath, outstanding in its delegation. Bulgaria's representation is headed by Vladimir Moll-off.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
There is one thing that I want real bad, and that is an opal ring. People tell me to get any other but that, because it brings bad luck. I'm not superstitious, but so many have told me that I am perplexed. Kindly tell me what stone is for the month of June. Thank you.
PERPLEXED.

PERPLEXED: That's an old superstition, my dear, and one which, personally, I regard as silly. By all means get an opal ring if you want it. Your luck is mostly of your own making, anyhow, and how can such a beautiful thing as an opal bring any bad luck?
The pearl is regarded as the birthstone for June.

DORTMUND CONSTRUCTING LARGEST SPORTS HALL

DORTMUND, Sept. 26—The largest exhibition and sporting hall of Europe is being constructed at Dortmund. Its dimensions are almost double those of the Berlin Sport Palace, and even exceeds the Century Hall at Breslau.

The vaulted roof is constructed entirely of wood instead of iron, according to a new system. The hall will seat 11,000 persons besides offering standing room for 1,500 more. Annexed to the main building is a special hall intended as a hippodrome and additional stabling accommodations for 150 horses. Another feature is to be a bicycle race course 200 metres in length which is also to be used for motor races.

The dimensions of the hall are such that it will be possible to hold simultaneous competitions in sprinting and gymnastics, bicycle contests and equestrian exhibitions. Other features are tennis courts, a large banqueting hall, suites of offices, training quarters and a restaurant.

The area of sport buildings will be further enlarged by the municipality of Dortmund and converted into a public park, including a football oval and a large swimming pool.

DREADFUL PAINS

Georgia Lady, Who Had Lost Too Much Weight, Was Advised to Take Cardui and Is Now Well.

Columbus, Ga.—Mrs. George S. Hunter, of this city, writes: "After I married, thirteen months ago, I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides during ... My side hurt so bad it nearly killed me. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time. I could not work and I just dragged around the house."

"I got very thin—I went from 126 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had long been a user of Cardui and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve."

"My side hurt less and I began to improve in health. ... The Cardui acted as a fine tonic and I do not feel like the same person. I am so much better. I am well now. I have gained ten pounds and am still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all."

"I wish every suffering woman knew about Cardui."

PLAYS STRESSED FOR TUESDAY

Ladies Report That Advance Ticket Sale Is Good

Advance agents of the Radcliffe Chautauqua arrived in the city today prior to the opening of the three day festival next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and final plans were being laid today for the removal of all final details necessary before the initial performance is given. Activities were started today with a children's hour being conducted at the Central Methodist church during the morning. Open air performances, "stunts," were given during the afternoon at various points in the cities.

The public was extended an invitation to attend community night to night at the Y. M. C. A. at which time a program will be given by local talent.

Ticket sales have been most flattering, according to the ladies of the Central Methodist Missionary society which organization is bringing the Chautauqua to the people of these cities. Tickets have been placed on sale at the Rahm Clothing company, Clements Drug company and Preuit-Dillehay Drug company.

Tents will be pitched early Monday at the grounds on Fourth avenue and Gordon Drive, opposite the Central Albany school buildings, on the city park properties.

Miss Pearl Darnes, superintendent of the Radcliffe organization has been here several days arranging for the local pageant given this afternoon and tonight.

Featuring the Chautauqua entertainments the plays "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Duel" declared to be headliners of the entire series, will be shown on Tuesday, the former will be shown in the evening while "The Duel" will be played in the afternoon.

Ladies of the Missionary Society have been working earnestly for the past two or three weeks to make the entertainment a success from a financial standpoint and today appealed to the people of both cities to come out and enjoy clean and wholesome entertainment.

Will Is Upheld In Stockman Case

After a day and a half spent in hearing the case of Mrs. Rella Stockman vs. Paul Stockman, in which the latter was contesting the validity of the will of Henry Stockman, the jury remained closeted but a few minutes before returning a verdict in favor of Mrs. Rella Stockman.

The will set forth that all properties of Henry Stockman, deceased, should be given to Mrs. Rella Stockman, aged Albany woman. The will was attested to by D. M. Thrasher and C. J. Miller, friends of the deceased. Both are now dead. Attorneys Harris and Long represented Mrs. Rella Stockman; Eyster and Britnell, the contestant.

Paul Stockman, a son of Henry Stockman by a former wife, contested the will on the grounds alleging that a valid divorce had not been granted in the case of the first wife, that undue influence had been used in obtaining the will, and that Henry Stockman was of unsound mind at the time and prior to the making of the will.

YOUTH IS FOUND A HARDY MEMBER OF ARCTIC STAFF

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Kennet Rawson, a lad of fourteen will return to school this fall a proved member of an Arctic exploration party. Commander MacMillan took the youngest boy into the Northland and found him a hardy hand.

Whether it was serving in the galley, his principal duty, polishing brass or doing the heavy with a shovel, Kennet made a success of it. He had to, because at Sidney, Nova Scotia, MacMillan would send him back if he had not shown his worth.

Now an American boy and girl can claim partnership in being the youthful travelers of the Arctic region, daughter of Robert E. Peary having been born on his successful search for the north pole.

A companion of Rawson, also a youth, qualified as one of MacMillan's veteran seamen. He is Richard Salmon of Larchmont, N. Y., 17 year old son of the noted psychologist. Both boys attend eastern schools and in recent years each has cruised in yaw and schooner with marked ability. Their fathers last June planned an ocean trip for them but learning they could not obtain the desired schooner, Kennet's father, Frederick H. Rawson Sr., chairman of the board of directors of a Chicago banking house, decided to approach MacMillan, whom he knew to be interested in boys.

When MacMillan learned of Salmon's ability and size he was promptly accepted but at mention of Kennet's age, the explorer threw up his hands and emphatically said "no."

"But," assured Mr. Rawson, "this boy can box the compass; take his bearings from the sun. He is a thorough seaman and has done some oceanographic work during school vacations, and will work."

Kennet had many tests on the way to Sidney but upon reaching the Nova Scotia town, MacMillan notified Mr. Rawson the boy was making good.

SOLON AND WIFE DENIED DIVORCES

Sensational Chapter In Scott Romance Is Brought to Close

(Associated Press)
APILNA, Mich., Sept. 26.—Frank B. Scott, Michigan congressman and Edna J. Scott, his wife, both were denied divorces in a decision handed down today by Circuit Judge Frank B. Emerick.

Congressman Frank Douglas Scott and Edna James Scott, his wife, separated during Christmas week, 1922, after an all night conference in the Scotts' Washington apartment had failed to bring a reconciliation of their differences.

It was a year later before Frank Scott filed a petition for absolute divorce in the Alpena circuit court, charging extravagance and misconduct both under the heading of extreme cruelty.

In a cross bill Mrs. Scott denied all the charges made by her husband and countered with allegations that the congressman gambled "for high stakes" and that his conduct in other ways was of nature making continued living together impossible.

Mr. Scott, in attempting to substantiate his charges of misconduct named three men: Captain Wilbur "Jazzbo" Summers of the air service, Harry Wyckoff, a clerk at the Wardman-Park apartment hotel, Washington, and an unnamed man with whom Mrs. Scott is alleged to have become acquainted while traveling in Europe in the summer of 1922.

The hearing of the case before Judge Frank Emerick at Alpena early this year was interrupted to permit both sides to obtain additional facts and was resumed early in August. The testimony was fringed with stories of liquor, drinking and gambling parties at Washington and the names of several congressmen or former congressmen were heard.

On the congressional trip to Panama aboard the steamer Christobal Mr. Scott charged that her husband and other congressmen gambled and drank there was testimony that a quantity of liquor was taken aboard the steamer at Panama and that that was not consumed was unloaded from the boat at Norfolk, Va., and taken to the Washington homes of some of the congressmen. It was testified that some of the liquor went to the Scott apartment, although Mr. Scott denied this.

That Mrs. Scott was "indiscreet" in entertaining men guests in her apartment during the absence from Washington of her husband was charged by the congressman. This was denied by Mrs. Scott for whom witnesses testified that her conduct was orderly.

The Scotts were married in 1914. Mrs. Scott prior to her marriage was a graduate nurse. Pending a decision on the petitions, Mrs. Scott has been allowed $50 a month temporary alimony in addition to special allowances to enable her to obtain depositions which were used at the trial.

DECATUR HIGH NOW MEMBER 'HI-Y' CLUB

Birmingham Director Is Present At The Gathering

Boys of Decatur high school last night organized their own Hi-Y club. The organization was accomplished through the direction of Charles Ashwander, Boys Work Secretary of the local association. Present at the meeting, in an advisory capacity was J. E. Lewis, state wide Boys' Work Director from Birmingham who has spent the past two days in the Twin Cities studying the boys' work problem of the local Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Lewis was given an opportunity to go into some detail with reference to the purpose of a Hi-Y club, stating that the purpose of a Hi-Y club is "to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character," and he further declared it to be Christian, but non-sectarian. Mr. Lewis also brought out important points regarding the personal development of boys meaning mental, physical, spiritual and serviceable.

John McGehee and Ormond R. Grimes of Decatur, with Charles Ashwander, form what is known as the Hi-Y Club Advisory Committee. Mr. McGehee is chairman and adviser for the business men of the city; Ormond R. Grimes Decatur High school Faculty Adviser, with Ashwander as Y. M. C. A. Advisor. S. E. Arridson Physical Director of the Y. M. C. A. sat in at the meeting.

The following high school boys were present: Joe Broadus, president, Lamar Lee, vice president, Thos. Hendrix, secretary, Lacey Robertson, treasurer, Murray King, Sgt. at Arms, James King, Malcolm Austelle and Don Lewis as members. Everybody enjoyed a buffet supper and had a splendid time.

Intersectional Games a Feature Of Football Card

(Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Nineteen great intersectional football games in which five western conference eleven and Notre Dame play the chief roles indicate that the 1925 season on the gridiron will be the greatest football has ever seen.

Notre Dame has the heaviest intersectional schedule of any of the middle western eleven, but of the Big Ten universities with intersectional games ahead of them, Chicago faces the hardest schedule. The Maroons will meet two eastern eleven standing high in grid circles and one southern team. Never in the history of the Big Ten has a conference school looked forward to such a heavy intersectional schedule.

The Maroon eleven opens its season October 3 with the University of Kentucky on Stagg Field. On October 24, Chicago goes to Philadelphia to play Pennsylvania, a game that will bring out all the strategy that 34 years of coaching has given Director A. A. Stagg, the "Grand Old Man of Football."

Dartmouth, the "Big Green," comes to Chicago to play the Maroon eleven on November 14, in the last intersectional tilt for Chicago. Middle western and eastern grid critics point to this game as one of the best of the season.

Illinois, with Bob Zuppke at the helm of the Orange and Blue, is the second conference opponent for Pennsylvania the week following the Chicago-Penn game. The "Fighting Illini" go to Philadelphia Oct. 31, to clash with Penn. Illinois' great All-American half back, Harold Grange, will make his debut before eastern grid fans. Grange will be the big cog in Zuppke's strong offensive machine this season, as he has been for the past two years, and the Illinois team will be moulded around the great star.

Other western teams by scheduling intersectional tilts this year give evidence of the rising growth of east-west games and west-south games. Tulane University of New Orleans, has two games with western eleven. Missouri, of the Valley conference, goes south early in the year, Oct. 3, to play Tulane at New Orleans, and southerners come north in Chicago on October 24.

Columbia and Ohio State renew their rivalry on the chalked field, this time at Columbus in the huge Buckeye stadium on October 17.

The Navy seems to be popular with western teams. Once more Michigan clashes with the Midgies, at Ann Arbor, on October 31.

Marquette University of Milwaukee also meets the Navy eleven in the eastern stronghold on October 10.

Notre Dame faces West Point on October 24.

SPORTS

Call Of Gridiron Strongly Felt All Over Nation; Southerners Open Fight

When the gates were swung open this afternoon over the nation football with its accompanying blood and thunder, propaganda and predictions, was ushered in. The 1925 season is now heralded as the greatest football year ever known in this nation.

Alabama, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Tulane, Washington and Lee, Auburn Georgia will again emblazon the sport pages with their historic names and conflicting claims to fame. Today these foremost teams of the Southland are embattled at various fields, some with setups before them and others with difficult evenings facing them.

Alabama opens the season against Union University, easily an Alabama victory. Vanderbilt goes against Middle Tennessee Normal school, another setup. Georgia Tech faces Oglethorpe at Atlanta with little known of the strength of either team, Tech has the tremendous advantage of playing at home and according to custom of the past years should obliterate Oglethorpe with little difficulty. Tulane plays Louisiana College with the Greenies scheduled to win. Washington and Lee invades the east in the first game of the year, facing the University of Pittsburgh. The Southerners will offer opposition to the Panthers but fans look for a Panther verdict by a safe margin. Auburn battles Birmingham-Southern at Birmingham, some ardent lovers of Southern feeling that they will rip the Tiger forwards and carry on to a verdict. Mercer and Georgia should hand the fans some real thrills, if Mercer has anything like the strength she had last year.

Other southern teams will take on still lesser lights in the football world. In the east and west the following games are scheduled for today:

East
Pennsylvania vs. Ursinus at Philadelphia.
Washington and Lee vs. Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.
Cornell vs. Susquehanna at Ithaca.
Syracuse vs. Hobart at Syracuse.
Dartmouth vs. Norwich at Hanover.
Penn. State vs. Lebanon at State College.
W. and J. vs. Geneva at Washington, Pa.
Columbia vs. Haverford at New York.

West
Notre Dame vs. Baylor at South Bend.
Marquette vs. Loyola at Milwaukee.
Stanford vs. Olympe at Palo Alto.
California vs. Santa Clara at Berkeley.

Georgia Tech, Penn State, Baylor and Carnegie Tech.

Other intersectional games of this fall are: University of Detroit at West Point, Oct. 10; St. Louis University at West Point Oct. 24; Ohio Wesleyan at Syracuse University, Nov. 7; Washington and Jefferson at the University of Detroit, Nov. 14.

RELIGIOUS WORKERS OF JAPAN BANNED FROM POLITICAL MEET

TOKYO—Religious workers of Japan are complaining against what they term "unjust discrimination" shown them in the field of politics. While they are given a vote under the new manhood suffrage law, an existing police regulation prohibits all religious workers, including Buddhist, Christian and Shinto priests, from joining any political party. There are said to be more than 20,000 religious workers in Japan and it is reported they are planning to send two representatives to the Diet in the next general election.

The Only Oil made exclusively from amber colored crude

Tiolene is made exclusively from the famous amber colored Cabin Creek Crude. Samples of Cabin Creek Crude on display at all WOCO PEP Stations. Cabin Creek Crude is a super-Pennsylvania crude, the finest natural material found in the world.

Tiolene resists heat longest and goes on lubricating after other oils have burned up and broken down.

The safest lubricant is the one that resists heat longest.
